About the Temple University Diamond Marching Band

The “Pride of the Cherry and White,” the Temple University Diamond Marching Band presents exciting and innovative contemporary shows during the fall semester. The band performs a traditional pre-game show with varied half-time shows throughout the season. In addition to six hours of rehearsal per week, activities are arranged to be compatible with student schedules.

The Diamond Marching Band performs at all home games and travels to select away games and bowl games including the 2011 New Mexico Bowl, the 2009 EagleBank Bowl, the first Sugar Bowl in 1935 (Temple vs. Tulane), the Mirage Bowl held in Tokyo, Japan, the Garden State Bowl at the Giants Stadium, and the “We the People 200 Parade” celebrating the bicentennial of the United States Constitution. The Diamond Marching Band is regularly invited to perform at exhibitions and has appeared in New York City on The Today Show and Good Morning America.

The band has also taken part in Hollywood movies and events held in Philadelphia and New York. They performed at the premiere of Here Comes the Boom starring Kevin James; appeared in the Oscar-nominated movie The Wolf of Wall Street; and can be seen in the remake of Annie starring Jamie Foxx and Cameron Diaz. The band has also appeared on TV in episodes of the CBS drama Madam Secretary and The Tonight Show starring Jimmy Fallon.

The music performed by the Diamond Marching Band has garnered national attention. The band was recognized in Rolling Stone Magazine in the article “Top 10 Marching Band Cover Songs” for its rendition of Kanye West’s “All of the Lights” and in USA Today for its version of 5 Seconds of Summer’s hit “She Looks So Perfect.” The band has also received social media shout-outs from artists they have covered such as Camila Cabello, Paramore, Bastille, Fall Out Boy, AJR and Walk the Moon. The Band’s 2016 show, Panic! At the Disco, has surpassed 2.5 million views on YouTube, and their more recent video of BTS’ “Idol” has received over 5 million.

The Diamond Marching Band’s large and diverse membership provides exciting opportunities for instrumentalists, color guard performers and twirlers from every school and college at Temple University. The band’s membership is comprised of 75% non-music majors.

NOAH GORDON is from Newtown, Pennsylvania and is a first-year master's student studying trumpet performance. This is his first year as a graduate teaching assistant with the band, where he previously spent four years as a member of the trumpet section. Gordon was a featured soloist on "Cuz I luv you" by Lizzo and "Montero" by Lil Nas X. Outside of marching band, Noah plays in the Temple University Wind Symphony and Symphony Orchestra. He is also an avid fan of Allbirds shoes.

EMILY POLL is a first year masters student studying instrumental conducting. She is currently a graduate teaching assistant with the Temple Bands. Emily is from Wayne, PA and graduated from West Chester University in 2020 with her degree in music education & music theory. Before coming to Temple, Poll taught for three years, including high school band, music theory, and instrumental music classes.

NOAH BARR is a third year jazz performance and jazz composition/arranging double major from Redmond, WA. This is his third year in the TUDMB and his first year as a drum major. Previously, he was a trumpet section leader. At Temple, Barr plays tenor sax in the Lab Band under Steve Fidyk and is the assistant music director of the Rho Upsilon chapter of Phi Mu Alpha. He has never dropped his mace during pregame, and never will. GO OWLS MAN!

SAM MACFARLANE is a 4th year music education major from Bordentown, New Jersey. This is her fourth season with the TUDMB. MacFarlane is a second-year drum major and was previously Trumpet Section Leader. Outside of band, MacFarlane is a member of Temple's chapter of the National Association for Music Education-Collegiate. Sam is also the proud owner of the Trumpet House cat, named Milo!
