Video Auditions

Applicants who live 150 miles away from Temple University (Philadelphia campus) may submit a video audition via Acceptd. Acceptd charges a $30 fee for this video audition service.

The Audition – Our Three-Part Process

- 1) Learn three recorded movement phrases: Ballet, African Diasporic and Modern/Contemporary dance techniques and perform them at your in-person audition or in a recorded video.

Applicants auditioning in person will perform the movement phrases one-by-one in a studio with a faculty panel of two.

You will receive an audition confirmation after we receive all your audition materials (head shot picture, dance resume, and audition application). You will select your in-person audition date or video submission date on your audition application.

You will receive the three recorded movement phrases along with music files or the name of the song and musician four weeks prior to your scheduled in-person audition date or video audition date submission.

- 2) Create a one-minute solo choreography to perform in-person or to record for submission through Acceptd.

This dance piece must be self-choreographed and should demonstrate your ability to develop movement ideas using some basic elements of composition. Your command of dance vocabulary should convey the main idea of your piece. We encourage you to consider musical/sound accompaniment carefully and ensure that the choice reflects your artistic vision. We welcome innovative accompaniment that challenges our preconceptions of choreography.

- 3) Complete an in-person interview with faculty panel OR respond to the following prompts on your audition video:
 - What is your favorite style of dancing and why?
 - Why is dance important?
 - What are some positive changes you would like to initiate in the dance field?

Audition Attire

Females: leotard, convertible tights (black, flesh tone or pink) and ballet slippers for ballet; bare feet for modern and African.

Males: shirt, tights, and ballet slippers for ballet; shirt, footless tights, and bare feet for modern and African.

Non-binary applicants: Please dress in attire that feels most authentic to you while staying within the parameters of appropriate dance attire (items listed above).

Hair: Confined neatly, back from the face, and secured off the neck.

Jewelry: Please remove all dangling and elaborate jewelry for viewing and safety purposes.

Identifying Item: Anything that helps you stand out from fellow auditionees - a unique leotard, hair clip, etc.

*Applicants attending in-person auditions will not have the opportunity to change dance clothes during the audition. Please do not wear loose fitting items or warm-ups.

Campus Life

Are first-year students required to live on campus?

Temple University does not require first-year students to live on campus; however, the Dance Department strongly recommends that students enrolled in their first and second years of the undergraduate program reside in campus housing. Adjusting to the academic rigor associated with a collegiate dance program can be strenuous, and the support provided to students on Temple's campus will ease a student's transition into this new environment.

What is the Music and Dance Living & Learning Community (LLC)?

This housing community is for students who have been admitted to the Boyer College of Music and Dance. With its proximity to Presser Hall and Conwell Dance Theater, students have opportunities to attend special events, lectures, and cultural venues on campus and throughout the city of Philadelphia.
